MyNawras for Business

In this internet age, we often wonder what new services are on the horizon and how they will benefit us. Did you ever wish you could analyse your mobile call spend and identify your call patterns? Do you want detailed analysis to support your company's cost saving measures? Then look no further as we await the launch of "MyNawras for Business", an online self supporting tool that will change the way you handle telecommunication matters in your company.

Certain to be a clear favourite among customers wanting full transparency, this service will give corporate customers a complete overview of their telephone bills, payments, products and services. With billing details at your fingertips you will have full independence in managing your account. Considering customers' confidentiality, 'MyNawras for Business' will offer separate log in access codes for the designated telecommunication administrator to view the entire company's accounts and pay bills or e-recharge. Individual employees will have access own codes to view their personal accounts.

The telecommunication administrator will have additional facilities such as the ability to receive configuration settings for individual mobile handsets, a useful Web SMS feature to send bulk SMS, telephone bill analysis and also the facility to download billing and call history details to Microsoft Excel sheets for further study.

More details of this exciting service will follow. However, if you are interested in taking part in a trial service being offered to a selected few, then please send contact us at nbs@nawras.om
